

SANTOSH

Deemed to be University
(Established u/s 3 of the UGC Act, 1956)

Venue: Maharaja Hall

Date: 29th November 2022; 2-4pm

Topic: Professional Development, Soft Skill and community orientation for MBBS Batch 2022-23 for foundation course- Extra-curricular activity Movie and reflective discussion.

Faculty of department of biochemistry presented a lecture on Professional Development, Soft Skill and community orientation for MBBS Batch 2022-23 for foundation course- Extra-curricular activity Movie and reflective discussion. Dr Juhi Aggarwal, Prof & head & Dr Luna Sinha, Assistant Professor discussed the importance of Medical education, healthcare, and research. The session included topics on learning styles, soft skills, student support system, self-directed learning, development of leadership skills, conflict management, time management, communication skills, medical ethics and students orientation to the health systems which were well received by the students. The reasons reflected from their session plans which facilitated small group discussions and had ice-breaking activities, team building activities, energizing activities, hands-on training, motivating the students to present their ideas, creativity and reflections. Active learning made the students responsible for their learning process and developed higher-order thinking

Number of Student participation with an attendance sheet: 107

