REPORT- Tobacco Cessation Counselling Course

The Tobacco Cessation Counseling(TCC) Program, organized by the Department of Public Health Dentistry at Santosh Dental College & Hospital, aimed to equip BDS students with the necessary skills and knowledge to effectively counsel individuals seeking to quit tobacco use. The 16-hour online program was conducted thrice (20th Oct 2018 to 10th Nov 2018, 17th Nov 2018 to 08th Dec 2018, and 15th Nov 2018 to 05th Jan 2019)to ensure widespread participation and accessibility for students. Interactive lectures, case studies, and group discussions were employed to foster active engagement and facilitate experiential learning.The program was structured to cover essential aspects of counseling techniques, prevention strategies, and holistic approaches to tobacco cessation. It was facilitated by distinguished faculty members from the department.

Dr. Archana Aggarwal (Prof & HOD) provided an insightful introduction to the significance of TCC, emphasizing the role of dental professionals in combating tobacco-related diseases.She elaborated on the 5 A's approach (Ask, Advise, Assess, Assist, Arrange) in counseling, providing students with a structured framework to effectively engage with tobacco users and facilitate behavior change.Dr. Priyanka Bhushan (Reader) delved into the 5 R's approach (Relevance, Risks, Rewards, Roadblocks, Repetition) in counseling, emphasizing the importance of addressing individual motivations and barriers in the cessation journey. Additionally, she elucidated various prevention strategies, including community-based interventions, policy advocacy, and educational campaigns, to address the root causes of tobacco use and prevent initiation among vulnerable populations.

The TCC program received overwhelming participation from BDS students (80%), reflecting their keen interest in public health initiatives and tobacco control efforts. Participants gained valuable insights into counseling techniques, prevention strategies, and ethical considerations in tobacco cessation interventions.

The TCC program at Santosh Dental College & Hospital exemplifies the institution's commitment to holistic dental education and community-oriented healthcare. By equipping future dental professionals with the requisite skills and knowledge to address tobacco dependence, the program contributes significantly to the promotion of oral health and the prevention of tobacco-related morbidity and mortality.This report encapsulates the key highlights and outcomes of the TCC Program conducted by the Department of Public Health Dentistry at Santosh Dental College & Hospital.

REPORT- Tobacco Cessation Counselling Course

The Tobacco Cessation Counseling(TCC) Program, organized by the Department of Public Health Dentistry at Santosh Dental College & Hospital, aimed to equip BDS students with the necessary skills and knowledge to effectively counsel individuals seeking to quit tobacco use. The 16-hour online program was conducted thrice (20th Oct 2018 to 10th Nov 2018, 17th Nov 2018 to 08th Dec 2018, and 15th Nov 2018 to 05th Jan 2019)to ensure widespread participation and accessibility for students. Interactive lectures, case studies, and group discussions were employed to foster active engagement and facilitate experiential learning.The program was structured to cover essential aspects of counseling techniques, prevention strategies, and holistic approaches to tobacco cessation. It was facilitated by distinguished faculty members from the department.

Dr. Archana Aggarwal (Prof & HOD) provided an insightful introduction to the significance of TCC, emphasizing the role of dental professionals in combating tobacco-related diseases.She elaborated on the 5 A's approach (Ask, Advise, Assess, Assist, Arrange) in counseling, providing students with a structured framework to effectively engage with tobacco users and facilitate behavior change.Dr. Priyanka Bhushan (Reader) delved into the 5 R's approach (Relevance, Risks, Rewards, Roadblocks, Repetition) in counseling, emphasizing the importance of addressing individual motivations and barriers in the cessation journey. Additionally, she elucidated various prevention strategies, including community-based interventions, policy advocacy, and educational campaigns, to address the root causes of tobacco use and prevent initiation among vulnerable populations.

The TCC program received overwhelming participation from BDS students (80%), reflecting their keen interest in public health initiatives and tobacco control efforts. Participants gained valuable insights into counseling techniques, prevention strategies, and ethical considerations in tobacco cessation interventions.

The TCC program at Santosh Dental College & Hospital exemplifies the institution's commitment to holistic dental education and community-oriented healthcare. By equipping future dental professionals with the requisite skills and knowledge to address tobacco dependence, the program contributes significantly to the promotion of oral health and the prevention of tobacco-related morbidity and mortality.This report encapsulates the key highlights and outcomes of the TCC Program conducted by the Department of Public Health Dentistry at Santosh Dental College & Hospital.

REPORT- Tobacco Cessation Counselling Course

The Tobacco Cessation Counseling(TCC) Program, organized by the Department of Public Health Dentistry at Santosh Dental College & Hospital, aimed to equip BDS students with the necessary skills and knowledge to effectively counsel individuals seeking to quit tobacco use. The 16-hour online program was conducted thrice (20th Oct 2018 to 10th Nov 2018, 17th Nov 2018 to 08th Dec 2018, and 15th Nov 2018 to 05th Jan 2019)to ensure widespread participation and accessibility for students. Interactive lectures, case studies, and group discussions were employed to foster active engagement and facilitate experiential learning.The program was structured to cover essential aspects of counseling techniques, prevention strategies, and holistic approaches to tobacco cessation. It was facilitated by distinguished faculty members from the department.

Dr. Archana Aggarwal (Prof & HOD) provided an insightful introduction to the significance of TCC, emphasizing the role of dental professionals in combating tobacco-related diseases.She elaborated on the 5 A's approach (Ask, Advise, Assess, Assist, Arrange) in counseling, providing students with a structured framework to effectively engage with tobacco users and facilitate behavior change.Dr. Priyanka Bhushan (Reader) delved into the 5 R's approach (Relevance, Risks, Rewards, Roadblocks, Repetition) in counseling, emphasizing the importance of addressing individual motivations and barriers in the cessation journey. Additionally, she elucidated various prevention strategies, including community-based interventions, policy advocacy, and educational campaigns, to address the root causes of tobacco use and prevent initiation among vulnerable populations.

The TCC program received overwhelming participation from BDS students (80%), reflecting their keen interest in public health initiatives and tobacco control efforts. Participants gained valuable insights into counseling techniques, prevention strategies, and ethical considerations in tobacco cessation interventions.

The TCC program at Santosh Dental College & Hospital exemplifies the institution's commitment to holistic dental education and community-oriented healthcare. By equipping future dental professionals with the requisite skills and knowledge to address tobacco dependence, the program contributes significantly to the promotion of oral health and the prevention of tobacco-related morbidity and mortality.This report encapsulates the key highlights and outcomes of the TCC Program conducted by the Department of Public Health Dentistry at Santosh Dental College & Hospital.
