REPORT:

Oral health of children is important to their overall well-being like other aspects of children's health must be considered in the context of social, cultural and environmental factors. Dental problems can have a profound impact on children.

To create awareness, an education and motivation program was organized on 7th Oct. 2013 by final year students (Batch - F). The program was carried out in the public health dentistry department. The chief guest for this occasion was honorable dean of Santosh Dental College, Dr. Manoj Goyal.

A week before the program, we collected data and found out the most commonly prevailing issues in children and what measures can be taken to prevent them and tract them. The patients and their parents took keen interest and cleared their doubts. They were all taught about the proper brushing technique. A demonstration was given on brushing technique with the help of a toothbrush and plaster casts. Audience was also made to try themselves on the models.

Various issues were taken but the most talked about were thumb sucking, snacking in between meals, nursing bottle caries and tooth loss.

Our respected head of the department Dr. Archana Agarwal also gave a health talk. At the end of the program audience was presented with free samples of toothbrushes and toothpastes. Later on, our teachers congratulated everyone for organizing the successful event.
